As You Like It.

The Kansas City Star says there is only one red-headed man in the United States senate. Well, a great many of the members act very red-headed at times, don't they, Mr. Bailey?

Kansas Democrats opened their state campaign, assisted by a carload of beer. We knew the Kansas Democrats could never get along without the Pops.

The candy trust is sure to win out if the members all pull together.

A new mirror has been placed in the house of representatives. It ought to squelch the pride of many congressmen who are inclined to swell up too much.

A Wisconsin balloonist has gone in sane. His profession is quite likely to make a man flighty.

When David B. Hill announced that in his long and festive career he had never smoked, chewed, or kissed a lady, he was probably making a bid to get into the animal division of Tom Johnson's circus.

Astronomers continue to discover new evidences that Mars is inhabited. Now let some enterprising sky-scraper discover Lydia Pinkham's picture on a board fence and the proof will be convincing.

Russel Sage recovered when everybody predicted that he was "all in." He's been watching the price of coffins too closely to be tricked into ruining his reputation for sturdy economy.

While one swallow may not make a summer, several swallows, if its the right stuff may lead to an early fall.

There are 6,000 foot ball players in the United States. The corn crop is going to waste because there is a scarcity of strong men to gather it into the cribs. Here is a flaw in our political economy.

"Heaven lies about us in our infancy," sang Wordsworth. Our observation is that nearly everybody else also lies about us in our infancy, and oftentimes even after we have carefully and cautiously put infancy behind us.

The Great Forest Fires.

More than a score of lives have been lost in the great forest fires which raged for two weeks in Colorado, Wyoming and Washington, and farmers lost all their buildings, implements and crops. The damage in western Washington is estimated at $2,000,000, and the Governors of Colorado and Wyoming appealed to the Secretary of the Interior for help to check the fires in their states.

The prospects of our great forest areas would be gloomy indeed if there was not reason to hope that, though this evil cannot be wholly averted, its ravages may be largely reduced. Within the past few years much attention has been given in some states to the question of forest protection. The fact was soon recognized that the safeguarding of forests cannot be left to private interests even where large areas have passed into the hands of purchasers or lessees. This is one of the reasons why the Federal Government established great forest reserves on its public lands in many of the Western states and employ men to keep a special lookout for fires, and why some of the states have fire wardens and have regulations for the prevention of fires and defence against them.

Twenty years ago there was no organized effort in the country to protect forests against fires and in some seasons the value of the timber burned amounted to many millions of dollars. Great fires have occurred since the states began to adopt forest laws, but on the whole the average annual damage has been much reduced and it will be smaller still when the laws are as well enforced as they are in Minnesota, where the loss sometimes is only a few thousand dollars in a year.

Obey the Law.

The Supreme Court of Missouri at Jefferson City granted a writ of mandamus upon the petition of William Preston Hill of St. Louis, compelling the state board of equalization, composed of Governor Dockery, Secretary of State Cook, Treasurer Williams, Auditor Allen and Attorney General Crow, to meet forthwith and make a new assessment of the many corporations in the state upon the basis of the actual cash value of their properties.

Mr. Hill shows that he owns property in St. Louis valued at $104,070 which was assessed at its true value, his total taxes amounting to $2,029.36. The writ is made returnable to court in course. It is directed to the above named state officers, as members of the state board of equalization. The petition sets out the dates of the meeting of the board at which the state assessment was made and the adjournment of the board.

A Pleasant Evening.

One of the most pleasant events in the social history of Kimsey, took place at the beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Landers. In response to invitations issued by the host and hostess, about forty young people spent Tuesday evening of this week with them, and to say they had a good time don't half tell the story. Music on the organ, violin, mandolin and guitar in the parlor entertained the more sedate guests, while in the other rooms the young folks enjoyed games of all kinds. At a late hour an elegant lunch was served, after which the young folks thanked Mr. and Mrs. Landers for the pleasant evening passed.

In addition to the young folks of the household, there were present: Mr. Elder and wife, Messrs. Walter Meyer, Edgar and Willie Mues, Fred Campbell, Willard Allen, Clare McKinney, Frank Noland, Lawrence Pulington, Charlie Landry, Pack and John Dooley, Willie Martin, Fred Kollmer, Dock Anselmet, Ben Bartlett, Clarence Ganes and Roy Ackerman, and Misses Maggie Landry, Lillie and Minnie Campbell, Bonnie Hardman, Cora and Carrie Allen, Mary Booch, Daisy McKinney, Lee and Ala Dooley, Susie Stout, Myrtle and Sudie Landers.

Wheat Goes to 95 Cents.

Application to restrain Armour & Co., from further effort at a settlement of September wheat operations so far as they concern H. H. Wells, was made before Judge Chytrous, Tuesday.

Wells is a broker and the proceedings are similar to those in the recent oats corner which was decided in favor of the plaintiffs and upset the board of trade traditions.

Tuesday saw the culmination of the most spectacular "squeeze" in September wheat in many years.

The last day in the September option opened with an advance of from 1/4 to 1 1/2 cts to 88 1/2 cts.

Armour & Co., the leading holder of the wheat, evinced no disposition to bid prices up but the large short interest was nervous and in spite of caution and systematic bidding on their part the price rose rapidly to 91 cts.

At this point there were wild rumors of an injunction restraining the bull leaders from advancing the price, and market quickly broke to 88 cts. Here, however, the denial officially of the existence of an injunction again threw the shorts into a frenzy and on wild bidding by the entire crowd the price was run up to 95 cts per bushel.

John S. Ball and family have removed to St. Joseph, and from there will likely remove to Arkansas.
